Unconditional love for children

Michael and Dawn are no strangers to what it means to be foster parents. Michael and Dawn each grew up in homes where their parents provided care to foster children. In 2015, Michael and Dawn made the decision to open their own home to children in care. In that brief time, they have taken in several placements. The couple advocate for every child and are committed to ensuring the children receive needed services, education and medical care.

Michael and Dawn support the children and make sure they feel comfortable in their home. They also collaborate with the birth parents to assist them in the reunification process. The couple show up early to birth family visits to ensure the children make it on time. Michael and Dawn recently cared for a medically fragile child and have gone above and beyond with getting his needs met. In addition, the couple has volunteered at their local foster closet and helped out by building shelves and sorting clothes. Michael and Dawn know the importance of providing love and care to children in need and do so with pride!
